

Selected by UNISA

MOVING PEOPLE TO DELIVER SERVICES

Aaditya Mattoo and Antonia Carzaniga,
Editors

A copublication of the World Bank and Oxford University Press

CONTENTS

	Foreword	ix
	Acknowledgments	xi
1	Introduction and Overview Aaditya Mattoo	1
THE ECONOMICS, LAW, AND POLICY OF MODE 4
2	The GATS, Mode 4, and Pattern of Commitments Antonia Carzaniga	21
3	Mode 4: Negotiating Challenges and Opportunities Richard J. Self and B. K. Zutshi	27
4	The Economic Implications of Liberalizing Mode 4 Trade L. Alan Winters	59
5	Labor Mobility in Regional Trade Agreements Julia Nielson	93
6	Current Regimes for the Temporary Movement of Service Providers: Case Studies of Australia and the United States Julia Nielson and Oliver Cattaneo	113

THE STAKEHOLDERS' VIEW

7	Draft Model Schedule for Mode 4: A Proposal Mark Hatcher	157
8	Mode 4 and the Software Services Sector: An Indian View Vaibhav Parikh	163
9	International Trade and Migration of Health Care Workers: Thailand's Experience Suwit Wibulpolparsert	171
10	Barriers to the Temporary Migration of Filipino Service Providers Josephine J. Francisco	179
11	The Jamaican Experience with the Movement of Natural Persons in the Provision of Services Enos A. Brown	191
12	Mode 4 and Trade Union Concerns Mike Waghorne	201
13	The Temporary Inflow of Natural Persons for the Swiss IT Market Pierre E. Page	207

THE REGULATORS' PERSPECTIVE

14	Mode 4: Through a Canadian Immigration Policy Lens Paul Henry	211
15	Mode 4: A German Regulator's View Torsten Christen	221
16	Mode 4: A U.S. Regulator's View Howard R. Dobson	227
17	Mode 4: A South African Regulator's View Ivan Lambinon and Mario G. R. Oriani-Abrosini	231